AERIAL ATTACK SMASHES NAZIS

By THURSTON MACAULEY
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Jan. 23.—The German Ardennes salient was reduced today to about one-tenth of its greatest depth as American ground forces slashed eastward behind a shattering air blow and pushed the western end of the bulge back to within six miles of the German frontier.

The battered forces of Nazi Field Marshal Gerd von Rundstedt, hammered mercilessly throughout yesterday by fleets of more than 3,000 American and other Allied planes, continued a general withdrawal back toward the temporary haven of the Siegfried line.

Nazis Take Heavy Losses

Three tactical air forces flew more than 3,000 sorties yesterday to smash thousands of German motor vehicles, tanks, railway cars and locomotives and handed the enemy punishment believed to have exceeded that suffered by the Nazis in the battle of the Falaise Gap.

The withdrawing Germans were constantly harassed by American artillery fire from batteries hitting at the main Nazi escape routes from positions on both the north and south shoulders of the salient.

Impressive Sweeps

Impressive sweeps were made by the American Third Army against the southern flank of the diminished bulge. The troops of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton moved ahead for gains of five miles across a 20-mile front and at one point were

PA NEWC Observes

Considerable snow fell during the night, once more, and there was a tendency to drift on some sections, Pa. Newc is informed.

Local folks are now experiencing the seventh week of the unprecedented spell of winter weather. Ground has been thickly coated with snow without a letup during all of that period.

Don't let up on the effort to feed the birds and small game. They need aid now more than at any time in many years.

Men who are working in the city street department squads clearing ice from gutters and hauling it off downtown streets, suggest that motorists could use a lot more courtesy in operations in the vicinity where they are working. Many motorists seem to give little heed to the fact that men are working in the street.

An oddity exists today, according to City Engineer John Z. Street. It is January, the 23rd day, and the year 1945. "Now if one will glance the numerals run concurrently, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, or 1-2-3-4-5, and may never realize that way again. However, it provides an item for Pa. Newc's readers.

Daily Weather Report

United States weather statistics for the 24-hour period ending at 9 a. m. today follow:

Maximum temperature, 33.
Minimum temperature, 21.
Precipitation, .21 inches, two and a tenth inches snow.

Statistics for the same date a year ago follow:
Maximum temperature, 48.
Minimum temperature, 32.
Precipitation, 23 inches with inch and half of snow.

Navy Presents Defense Against Senate Charges

Strikes Out In Defense Of Operations At Norfolk Navy Yard Made By Probers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—(INS)—The Navy struck out today in defense against charges by members of the Senate War Investigating committee that manpower was being wasted at the Norfolk Navy Yard in conditions amounting almost to treason.

The charges, which threw the Senate into an uproar, were made by Sens. Ferguson (R) Mich., and Mead (D) N.Y., committee chairman, who declared that "full national service at this stage of the war, with the present inefficiencies in utilization would result only in chaos."

In a special statement, the Navy said that "the most emphatic answer to the charges which have been raised against the Norfolk Navy Yard is the record of the yard's achievements during 1944, when, in addition to the construction of a large aircraft carrier, the yard repaired a total of 2,458 ships of which 830 ships had to be dry-docked—a record of two and one-third ships docked per day."

"Obviously someone has been doing a job, and on an overall basis, the Navy is proud of the accomplishments of the officers, supervisors and workers employed in its production facilities," the statement declared.

Mood condemned both industry and the armed services for wasting the services of men now available to them, asserting that men are loafing in the country's war plants.

He said "an alarming condition" was being created by the yard while Ferguson declared he had found conditions at the yard "amounting almost to treason."

APPOINTMENT OF WALLACE MEETING MUCH OPPOSITION

The nation calling upon them to battle the nomination to the bitter end.

The senate commerce committee meantime was called into session to discuss both the Wallace nomination and the George bill to remove the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and other huge financial agencies from control of the secretary of commerce.

Sen. Bailey (D) N.C., chairman of the commerce committee, said the George bill might solve the problem. Opposition to confirmation of Wallace would recede, he said, if the loan agencies were taken from him.

Will Press For Action

Meanwhile Sen. George (D) Ga., who introduced a bill to reconstitute the federal loan agency and take financial organizations from the department of commerce, said he would press the measure.

These agencies, he explained, were transferred to the commerce department by Mr. Roosevelt in 1942. Jones formerly held the post of commerce secretary and federal loan administrator.

Action on the Wallace nomination may be held up until it is determined whether the bill to separate the loan functions will be passed. George, however, disclaimed any intention to seek this.

Some senate observers accepted the appointment to mean that Mr. Roosevelt had decided to "go left" in domestic matters. For some time have been rumors that he would lean to the left in domestic matters and to the right in foreign policy.

Recent appointments of Mr. Roosevelt to the state department, including Secretary of State Stettinius, who formerly was chairman of United States Steel, were assailed as being "rightist" or "reactionary" by dissident New Dealers.

Now, in the appointment of Wallace, the pendulum has swung to the left, Wallace himself, in a statement expressing pleasure over the job, indicated that he would play a big role in carrying out Mr. Roosevelt's campaign goal of 60 million peace-time jobs with government backing.

KILLED IN CRASH

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 23.—(INS)—Robert Marshall, 75, of Cooperstown, died today from injuries received when an automobile and a street car collided in Shaler township, the Allegheny county corner reported.

Charles Marshall, the dead man's nephew, driver of the car was in a Pittsburgh hospital in a serious condition, authorities said.

Police stated that the car skidded into the path of a trolley operated by William G. Eichler, 27, of Millvale.

Stockholm as designed to prevent the spread of panic within the borders of Hitler's fortress Germany.

German parents despairing over the fate of younger children have learned their older sons in Nazi divisions facing annihilation behind the Russian front have undergone inhuman hardships, marching for over a week without sleep or rest.

Wild Rumors

As wild rumors flew about the Reich despite rigid Nazi control, huge numbers of civilian workers were reported being sent to build fortifications along the Oder river, last natural defense line before the capital.

Other groups were reported building anti-tank fortifications outside Berlin itself.

To the hardships of one of the war's bitterest winters was added a decree cutting supplies of coal and coke another 30 per cent. Banning electric heating altogether. Nazi officials refused the use of gas to all homes with alternative means of cooking.

The threat to German Silesia, where Red armies are approaching, the capital city of Breslau, was given as the reason for the further drastic fuel cuts within the Reich.

As refugees were said to be storming trains in defiance of security decrees, and German women began "extra rapid training" for military service, the Berlin radio shouted for the people to "hold out" until "miracle" stems the Russian tide.

"Hold out, hold out," cried Dr. Karl Sharping, chief spokesman for Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels.

"We must not judge the situation by looking at the map. Fanatical will have overcome greater crises."

by Chinese troops both in Burma and across the Salween and their American comrades in arms," Gen. Sultan said.

"It represents untiring work by American troops who built the Ledo road."

Should Restrain Cheers

While the air transport route to China would still be used and even augmented, the general said, the new land route would be the channel particularly for heavy equipment—guns, trucks and other material that could not be flown.

But great as this news is, it is felt here that the cheers should be hushed somewhat by two queries—extent of material available for transport to China and the potential capacity of the road itself.

Nonetheless, this overland route must help to revitalize China to a degree the Japanese will hardly resist.

Arrival of Chinese troops at Mong-yu, junction of the Ledo-Burma road, was reported today from southeast Asia command headquarters at Kandy.

(The Japanese news agency reported this morning that Japanese troops were engaging several hundred Allied paratroops at Mant-pakka, southeast of Nankam—about 15 miles northwest of the Burma road.)

POSEN ON DIRECT RAIL ROUTE TO GERMAN CAPITAL

yet been confirmed by the Soviets, said that Russian forces driving into rich Silesia, have reached the Oder river between Breslau and Oppeln.

Other reports said that armored infantry columns of the First Ukrainian army under the command of Marshal Ivan S. Konev, were surging forward in a drive which was expected to carry them to the banks of the Oder today in a drive to separate the capitals of upper and lower Silesia.

Front Changes Rapidly

The eastern front changed so rapidly under the impetus of the Russian drive that even official sources in Moscow were hard-pressed to keep the world advised of Red army victories.

In the northern sector of East Prussia the Russians seized the strategic town of Insterburg after a massive artillery assault.

Meanwhile the Red army which crushed through the southern border of East Prussia to capture historic Tannenberg, smashed to within slightly more than 60 miles of Danzig as the giant Red army pincers closed around the easternmost Nazi province.

In the fighting which resulted in the capture of Insterburg, Soviet forces killed more than 2,000 Nazi officers and men who, according to individual advance, the 500 prisoners taken, were ordered to hold the city at "all costs."

In addition to being an important highway junction and the gateway to Koenigsberg, Insterburg also is the hub of seven rail routes.

Nearing Koenigsberg

A front report said that the Russians were within 25 miles of Koenigsberg.

The broad sweep of the Red armies into Germany was revealed in the Moscow announcement that more than 1,250 German cities, towns and villages had been captured in a 48-hour period.

Russian advances on every front were made in the face of savage and desperate Nazi opposition. Red army forces advancing on the key East Prussian town of Allenstein under murderous fire as the Nazis staged a desperate defense of the area astride the main rail route between Poznan and Insterburg.

In this area alone the Soviets rounded up more than 600 prisoners in a single day of fighting.

Advanced columns of the First White Russian army jabbed into the town of Labuszy, 12 miles south of Bromberg, and seized control of the area after bitter fighting.

Nazis Use Reserves

As the Soviet First Ukrainian army surged into the industrial Reich province of Silesia, the Nazis brought up strong reserves which were thrown into the battle at the moment they reached the front.

Despite these reinforcements the Russians slogged through their desperate defense to seize the approaches of the town of Gross-strehlitz. In this area the Soviets by-passed Nazi forces in the town and staged a swift blow which occupied the town.

More than 4,000 Hitlerites were wiped out in this sector, the Moscow communiqué disclosed.

Soviet forces driving through the southern reaches of East Prussia made gains of more than 20 miles, much of it through difficult wooded terrain.

Col. Ernst Von Hammer, German DNB news agency military commentator, said that all women and children in the path of the Soviet advance into Germany were being evacuated while all able-bodied men were being inducted into the Volksturm for a last-ditch defense.

Moscow roared to the sound of saluting cannon as Red army forces achieved new successes on every front.

pected to storm the eastern banks of the waterway on at least one sector today.

One unsubstantiated report said that the Russians were believed to have reached the Oder between the cities of Breslau and Oppeln, capitals, respectively, of lower and upper Silesia.

The Germans admitted frankly that the Soviet offensive, carrying them westward into Gniezno, Poland, 165 miles from the Reich capital, gravely threatened Berlin. Immediately imperilled was the Baltic city of Koenigsberg, capital of East Prussia, and the once free port of Danzig.

jective of the battle in this area is control of the Damortis-Rosario road, which has been impassable under artillery barrages.

Big guns of American warships in Lingayen Gulf are still aiding artillery batteries in shelling the Japs' mountain strongholds.

On the extreme right, troops which sealed off the northern end of the Bataan peninsula smashed south to Infanta on Dasol Bay.

Planes Sweep Low

American fighter planes swooped low over the central plain, wrecking 20 Jap trucks and destroying supply dumps. Others bombed artillery positions and tank parks in support of the ground troops. Bombers heavily hit highways and railroad installations in Batangas and the Bicol Peninsula, south of Manila.

In addition to disclosing that the 14th Corps was making the drive through the central plain toward Manila, Gen. MacArthur revealed that the First Corps was in action on Luzon, the American positions apparently being so secure now that identification of units involved no longer is of value to the Japs.

The 14th Corps also included the 37th Division under Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler which played an important part in the New Georgia and Bougainville campaigns, and the 40th Division under Maj. Gen. Repp Brush, which gained glory in capturing Lingayen city on "B" day.

A LITTLE GOOD JUDGMENT

Those who are responsible for the welfare of Pittsburgh, are trying to find some way to add more taxes onto the taxpayers. On top of their already great expense in running the City, they make an agreement with the light company to keep the lights burning in the mornings, in order to protect the lives of the children who are sent out on the streets, to make their way to get an education.

If someone would just mention the fact that if they would turn their clocks back to civilized time, it would save the City this unnecessary expense, as well as the already overburdened taxpayers, thousands of dollars.

READING CIRCLE '91

PAPERS ON "MEXICO"

Reading Circle '91 members assembled in the Y. W. C. A. reading room Monday afternoon when their discussion on "Mexico" was continued, with a series of interesting and informative papers being contributed.

Mrs. W. J. Caldwell had for her topic "Jewels and Jewelry" with Mrs. James Morgan following with an article on "Volcanoes." Mrs. Caldwell again participated, presenting a second subject on "Native Clothes" and exhibiting several articles of same. In addition, Mrs. James Morgan modeled a beautiful mantilla to further illustrate her theme. "Sports" was the topic chosen by Mrs. C. D. Updegraff and "Ruins" was related by Mrs. James Morgan in her composition. An informal discussion followed.

Next meeting on February 5 will be held at the same place with Mrs. C. D. Updegraff hostess in charge. "A Product of Mexico" will be given in response to roll call on this date.

McGILL SOCIETY

EVENING MEETING

On Monday evening McGill Missionary society of Highland U. P. church held its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. C. Edson Rummell, East Sheridan avenue. Miss Jean McGeorge was co-hostess.

Miss Gertrude Graham was in charge of the devotional period and prayer cycle.

Mrs. Thomas Baker, W. G. M. S. president during the past year was the speaker. She gave an inspiring talk on "Missionary Bridges," this year's missionary theme. Mrs. Robert Mills introduced Mrs. Baker.

During business, with Mrs. Clarence Ruthrauff in charge, announcement was made that the Tuesday Morning Prayer group will meet at Highland church on February 6 when Mrs. Frank L. Orth will be the table speaker.

The Misses Gertrude Graham, Thelma Merrilees, and Hazel Brennan were appointed as nominating committee.

Election will take place at the next meeting which will be in form of a tureen dinner at the church on February 28.

M. AND M. MEMBERS

GUESTS AT DINNER

In the home of Miss Teresa Coe, Highland avenue, on Sunday evening members of the M. and M. club gathered for a dinner party.

Aiding the hostess with the delicious full course dinner were Misses Elizabeth and Sara Quinn. Mrs. Hershey Noble and Mrs. Charles Zimmerman.

Informal pastimes filled in attention afterwards with defense stamps being awarded as prizes to Miss Cecilia Flynn and Mrs. Joseph Johnson.

February 18 the club will meet with Mrs. Johnson, South Mill street.

Russo-Evonoski Wedding

A mid-winter wedding ceremony impressively solemnized in St. Lucy's church, took place on Monday morning January 22, uniting in marriage Miss Rose Russo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Russo, 20 Montgomery avenue, to Constant Evonoski, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Constant Evonoski, 10 Mahoning avenue.

Vows were exchanged at 10 o'clock, with the Rev. Fr. Sebastian Ippolito, officiating. He used the double ring ceremony in the presence of a gathering of relatives and friends.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage, the bride was attired in white satin gown made princess style, entrain, with a long lace veil caught in crown affect. She carried an arm bouquet of white calla lilies. Her jewelry was a gold cross, a gift from her aunt, and earrings, gift from her sister, Mary Russo, who also served as maid of honor.

She wore an orchid mousseline de soie ice length gown embellished with sequins, and carried yellow tea roses.

Vincent Evonoski, eldest brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

A wedding dinner supplemented the ceremony, served in the home of the bride's parents. Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Ezzo of Cleveland, O., and Mr. and Mrs. James Chirborne, Youngstown, O.

The bridegroom is a veteran of the United States army and is employed at the United Engineering and Foundry company. The bride, a graduate of New Castle High, was associated with the Box corporation.

The newlyweds left on a wedding trip of several days, and upon returning will take up residence at 11 Tremont street, this city.

MARQUIS CHILDSIceland Is Being Drawn Into World

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Jan. 23.—If proof were needed that the world is bound together beyond any possibility of isolation, it is this once lonely island that seemed to lie so far off the beaten track.

It is not lonely now. Big planes come and go, along what is the shortest route to Europe. The Americans have built big bases here. They have set up radio ranges and all the complex aids to speed safety in the air.

For nearly 1100 years, Icelanders had lived their own separate and secluded lives. They were proud of their insularity. The ties they had with Europe rather than with America.

Then came the Nazi thrust for world power. Iceland was an important spot on the Nazi map of aggression. They had begun the process of propaganda and infiltration which was to have been followed by seizure of the island.

The Americans and the British moved first. Their "invasion" was hardly more welcome to the Icelanders than the Nazis would have been. Like most of the rest of us, the Icelanders were still living in the pre-air age when distance seemed to guarantee security. Relations were strained, to put it mildly, at the beginning of the American occupation. Unpleasant incidents marked the shattering of their ancient self-sufficiency. Recently there has been a decided improvement in the relations between the two peoples, but it is not yet any very perfect.

On both sides there is strain. For American soldiers stationed here, the place seems bleak and lonely. Fog and wind and rain sweep over the rocky fields. The capital of Reykjavik offers little in the way of entertainment, and that is particularly true for enlisted men. What is more important, it's hard to realize you're part of the war, and a vital part, when you never see it or hear it. There was danger here for a time. But it has long since passed, and now this spot seems like a backwater.

Big Morale Problem
Because of transportation difficulties, it is hard to live up to the rotation policy under which transfers are made after a specific term of service on the island. As a result, many men have been here for what seems like a never-ending time today. This makes for a big morale problem.

Talking with Jon Arnason, one of Iceland's civic and political leaders, you're made strongly aware of how abrupt have been the changes in our world. A man in his sixties, Arnason remembers when it was a four-day journey from his home in Skagafjörður to Reykjavik. The automobile cut that time to 10 hours. In the same length of time today, you can fly to New York or London.

Arnason has never been in America, although nearly every year for 30 years he visited Europe in connection with development of the Cooperatives, of which he is leader, or on government business. He is also chairman of the Icelandic National bank and his signature appears on all Icelandic currency, which is one reason American flyers like to get his name on their shortstopper bills.

Never Again Isolated
Just as this island with its 130,000 people will never again be isolated physically from the outside world, so, too, ideas and ideologies from the outside are current here. Some of the younger generation succumbed to Nazi propaganda. In scorn they greeted the invading Americans with the Nazi salute.

Now many of these same young people have swung over to Communism. There are 10 Communist cells in the island, and they have their own newspaper. Often, older men such as Arnason try to argue with their impetuous colleagues.

"But it is little avail," he told me. "They always come back with the answer: 'God is God, and the discussion is closed.'"

In his grave, slow-spoken way, Arnason shares his head a little sadly over such unreasonableness. He takes the view that Iceland must now draw much closer to America and learn the virtues of the American system. Today there are 200 Icelandic students going to school in colleges in the United States. If it were not for the war, of course, they would be studying in Europe.

St. Iceland, with its pride in its ancient democratic tradition, is being drawn into the world stream, as are all other places that once were remote and distant.

Koiso's End Near

Predictions are coming thick and fast that Koiso's days as head of the Tokyo government are numbered. Before him Tojo had built up great personal power—greater than that possessed by any individual since the shoguns of medieval times. But he was not able to survive the disaster of Japan.

Koiso's confronted by even greater disasters, including the invasion of Luzon, the severance of the vital supply lines through the South China Sea and the rising crescendo of American bombs bursting on military targets in the heart of the empire.

So far the Japanese army clique which built up power in Manchuria has been able to retain a tight rein. The navy commanders haven't been in it, largely because they have not had a triumph since Pearl Harbor and have lost much face. Many of the leading admirals have committed suicide. Japan's business magnates have been able to force their way into the army's inner circles of control. If there are to be fundamental cabinet changes in Japan, they probably will reflect a growing sphere of influence for Japan's industrial tycoons.

There would be method in that, method and cunning. Japan's leaders are as discerning as those of any other nation, and they know they have lost the war. From now on their governmental set-up will be designed to save whatever they can. It would not be surprising presently to see the formation of a Japanese government composed of those having pre-Pearl Harbor reputations for international cooperation.

That would be Japan's bid for peace with retention of Manchuria, Korea, Formosa and other tid-bits of conquest. This territory would give Japan the nucleus of preparation for another war.

Allied Strategy

Sweeping review of Allied grand strategy is expected to get under way during conferences between the three great powers, the first of which may be held soon after February 1. It is possible that changes in the general plan of the war may come out of these meetings. A month ago, these changes might have assumed an entirely different direction than will now be the case. Developments between today and the convening of the conference may again alter the entire outlook of the war.

It was no military secret that the original plan called for victory in Europe before the massing of Allied strength against Japan. Magnitude of present operations against Japan undoubtedly reflects the military situation as of last September, when it was believed on all sides that the Nazi military machine was washed up. While it was not planned to open a drive against the Japs from the East until matters were in hand in Europe, increasing activity in that theater also reflects the military situation as it existed in Europe last September.

Thus the Allies, although they did not plan it that way, are now engaged in all-out operations against both foes. Germany's failure to cave in as scheduled has thrown strategy awry. What changes in Allied military plans the meeting of Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin may bring cannot be predicted in advance.

There is hope in some circles in Washington that Russia, now that she has the hun again on the run, may no longer delay in moving against Japan. There is a possibility as some observers see it, that Stalin may get into that phase of the conflict before the end of hostilities in Europe. Russian strength thrown against the Japs in Manchuria would come as a welcome balance of power.

At any rate, Allied victory is no less certain if, from necessity, the strategy has to be revised.

On To Berlin?

In little more than a week of fighting the Russian armies have smashed the whole enemy defense line and are pouring into Germany.

The defeat is the most disastrous the Germans have suffered since they started the war. But the jubilant Russian spokesmen are saying that the Soviet armies will not stop until they reach Berlin may be counting chickens that are still to be hatched. The success of the offensive has been almost too overwhelming, the speed of the advance almost too great, enemy resistance almost too weak, to support the optimistic view that the Germans can never recover from this blow.

German commentators, who have themselves painted the situation on the Eastern Front in somber colors, have also described the retreat as a "disengaging operation." They have made this term familiar enough in the past, but in retrospect the vast retirement carried out since Stalin-grad must be accounted as at least partly a voluntary withdrawal and one executed with great skill. It may be that the Nazis have again deliberately shortened their lines to make another stand.

Certainly there must be fortified positions to the rear, probably along the Oder, standing in readiness. The experience of American troops along the Rhine indicates that they will be strong and stubbornly held, and by the time the Russians reach them they will have a supply problem to solve. The long march westward is nearing its end for the Soviet forces, but it may pause once more before the goal is reached.

Garden Foresight

Within 60 days preparations for victory garden making in the northern latitudes will be in order. That does not mean that the seedbed will be ready. But the gardener who is forehanded will be looking to the implements and the layout of the patch to be prepared to take advantage of the first soil-warming weather.

A good seed bed is more than half the battle, and it takes time to bring about a fine tilth. The gardener who pulverizes the last clod is on his way to gratifying results in all those toothsome vegetables which are more appreciated when a person raises them himself.

Some seasons prove favorable for peak production and some yield skimpy returns. To a degree some of that eventuality is in the laps of the gods. But labor in a garden makes a good year more generous and a poor year better.

The food situation the world over is such that it invites the individual to buck in and do his bit in adding something to the common store of good things to eat. In the past this locality has distinguished itself by going into vegetable gardening with enthusiasm and it should get set early this year to repeat.

German oil reserves are reported to have reached the critical stage, as what hasn't in Germany.

At any rate, if a shortage develops in chewing tobacco, that can not be blamed on the ladies.

The speed of light, we are now told, is not a rapid as astrophysicists once thought. But the motorist trying to get through on the green before it turns red will dispute that.

With one pooch falling heir to $20,000 and another getting an 'A' airplane priority, the prize "losing a dog's life" has just about lost all its old meaning.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

SCHOOL CHILD AND MUSICAL EDUCATION

Some day nearly every child will be able to learn from books will be given, at school, the opportunity to learn to play a musical instrument. When he goes to school no one asks him if he wants to learn to read and write. He is assigned these subjects at the school to help him get on so well that he will like them. A few children, of course, because of limitations, hardly could profit from instrumental music instruction.

At present not nearly all children's parents can afford to give them private music lessons. Many who could do not, and of those who wish to give their children music training, many are met with disappointment and vexation. And think of the vexation to unwilling children!

School Develops Music Interest
Fortunately the school has motivated music interest through orchestras, bands and group singing, and wiped out a lot of misery over music.

Slowly parents are recognizing that piano music is not essential to music education of all children, though it is the best means, no doubt, for beginning instrumental music in most children.

I used to advise parents not to begin the child on piano, except in case of marked musical talent. Until the age of ten or eleven, assuming that the child's needed coordination was not developed before that time. If muscular coordination were the only factor, that advice still might be good. There are other very important items. The average child who begins piano lessons as late as ten will not take readily to the drudgery involved and a boy will think it a girl's job, perhaps. The age of six or seven is a safe age to begin. Then let all the practice be with the teacher and for very short periods, for the first year or so.

Fifteen Minute Periods
When regular practice begins, let periods be not more than fifteen minutes, reaching for most children, not over half an hour at twelve or fourteen. Let the practice always come at a regular place and time by the clock, without doubt or argument. Unless there are religious objections, the practice should come every day without exception, and for those children who spend the summer at home, all the year around. Some, whose special burdens are heavy, should have lessons only during the summer vacation. A few should have lessons often than in winter.

An occasional parent can effectively direct the child's practice. I know some mothers who have done so superbly. Yet such are very rare. Most mothers, even when they are skilled at piano, do much more harm than good at "helping" their child. Let the guide be, "How devoid of vexation is the help?"

Palestine Resolution Given Sad BlowBy HELEN ESSARY
(Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The twilight is on the wall so far as great crowned heads of Europe are concerned. You can mark it down as most will not return to thrones. The tip-off is in the diplomatically impersonal term "regency."

Normally, a regent is appointed to serve until an under-age monarch attains majority.

But in World War II the term achieves a more powerful meaning and no one knows it better than George of Greece and Peter of Yugoslavia.

Peter's throne has practically been pulled from under him by Marshal Tito and his Soviet supporters. In Greece, the real precedent for Europe is being set. A regency has been set up, but fighting goes on. This virtually eliminates King George despite British backing.

In Norway, patriots who lived for years under Nazi domination are ready to protest the return of King Haakon, who in peace-time had an agreeably democratic monarchy. Ravages of war have stirred grumbling even there.

Pretenders to French, Spanish and Austrian thrones can be written off as Europe moves into a wave of revolution and popular political movements. In the Balkans, Soviet influence has been completely established, and King Carol of Rumania may well stay in exile.

Wiley's Plan Doomed
Belgian underground leaders are piqued over retention of Premier Pierlot and King Leopold's return is doubtful. Holland's Queen, Wilhelmina is popular and may come back.

The situation leaves Sweden and England just about the only sure-to-survive monarchies in Europe.

The move by Senator Alexander Wiley (R) of Wisconsin to have President Roosevelt take with him to future world conferences, the chairman and ranking minority member of the Senate foreign relations committee is doomed to failure.

Wiley is considering a resolution to implement his recommendation, but it appears doomed in the committee itself. Practically every Democrat would vote against it as precedent-shattering and embarrassing to the administration.

The Wiley proposal, which some day may bear fruit—will, in the opinion of observers, wait a long time before any report reaches floor.

The Mexican ambassador, Francisco Castillo Najera, dean of the Washington diplomatic corps, went to London recently to help "liquidate" the League of Nations and its assets and came back with five Paris hat boxes.

After the conference was over, Najera boarded a plane for Paris and reportedly made a hasty tour of the Rue Royale's fashion shops. As he climbed back in the big airliner, he carried five puff-ball-weight hat boxes. Then he and his family left Washington for Mexico City to attend the wedding of his son.

Observers guessed they may figure in his effort to put Mexico City on the map as a fashion center—that the new Paris creations worn by ladies of his family may serve as models to stir the interest of his country's milliners.

Stettinius Takes Stand
The stand of Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., in opposition to the Palestine resolution is in sharp contrast to that of his former chief, Cordell Hull.

Hull told Rep. Sol Bloom (D) of New York, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs committee, that he had no objection to the resolution calling for unrestricted immigration of Jews to Palestine. War Secretary Henry L. Stimson withdrew his objection and the committee recommended House passage.

Stettinius' objections, however, before the Senate Foreign Relations committee, considering the same resolution, blocked it, and the House rules committee denied the House resolution the right of way.

As a result, both resolutions died, to the disappointment of millions of Jews and liberals who anticipated approval in both the House and Senate because of backing it had received from President Roosevelt and members of both houses.

What People Say
(The International News Service)

WASHINGTON.—Jesse Jones' parting shot to President Roosevelt as Jones makes way for vice-president Henry A. Wallace, White House choice for Secretary of Commerce and RFC chief. "For you to turn over all these responsibilities to a man inexperienced in business and finance will be hard for the business and financial world to understand."

INDIANAPOLIS.—Sen. Raymond E. Willis (R) Ind., to GOP National Committee. "The Republican party should not be maneuvered into the position of being tagged isolationists, for isolationism has been washed out by the blood of our war fighters."

WESTERN FRONT.—German Field Marshal Von Paulus, who was captured at Stalingrad, in "sundered" words, "I am a prisoner of war. The war is lost for Germany. The military and state leadership of Adolf Hitler is to blame."

NEWARK, N. J.—Sen. Joseph F. Guffey (D) Pa.: "Labor is entitled to demand that the administration again make it clear to all the people of this country and the world exactly what sort of peace we are struggling to achieve."

Author of a volume on magic says it took him many years to write. Sounds like a difficult trick.

Whether it be good, or whether it be evil, we will obey the voice of the Lord our God, to whom we send thee; that it may be well with us, when we obey the voice of the Lord our God.—Jeremiah 42:6.

LOOKING AT LIFE

By ERICH BRANDEIS

"Soda jerks and grocery clerks! Look at them! Pimply-faced mothers' boys. Scared school kids. Not a military man among them. And it took this to prove that they are the best damned fighting men in the world."

That's what a high-ranking officer exclaimed after the German offensive had been stopped. He was a seasoned old war-horse, but he had tears in his eyes when he looked over the rubble and over those tired, hungry, wet kids who had saved America once more for you and me.

And there was something very, very tender in his voice, when he added: "Sure I did a good job. But if I'd done ten times better I still wouldn't be worthy of those kids."

That was an old general. There he was standing in a cold, wet fog. He and his men—those kids are men!—had just gone through hell, and yet—"if I'd done ten times better I still wouldn't be worthy of them."

I read my papers in the morning and I read them at night. I listened to the radio and to arm-chair strategists, and to senate and bar-room presidents, and I wonder.

I read about men asking for more money and about people rushing to Florida for the winter. I read about drunken brawls and complaints about tough steaks and not enough gasoline to go joy-riding.

And then I read about "soda jerks and grocery clerks and pimply-faced mothers' boys" fighting in stinking fox holes and losing arms and legs and eyes and lives—for what?

Some Disillusioning
The other day there was a story in one of the magazines about a boy who had been discharged from the Army after having been crippled at the front.

When he came home they gave him a hilarious party and there was dancing and drinking and necking, and a man offered him a job which wasn't quite clean but had a lot of money in it.

And this boy went out into the dark and thought of his buddy whom he had left in a field hospital in France—blind and all alone. And he was wondering, just like I wonder when I read and listen.

All the time he was at the front he had thought that the folks at home were fighting the war with them—in their own way, but fighting.

All that time he had thought that they would be thinking of only one thing—to win the war and to make this a better world to live in for the boys whom they had sent away with so many tears and so many promises and so many high resolutions.

He didn't think that he would have to fight for this world and then come home and make it the kind of a world for which he thought he was fighting.

My wife and I usually go out for a pretty hilarious time on New Year's Eve.

But this time we went to the midnight service in our church instead.

And never before did the old "On Come All Ye Faithful" have so much meaning for us.

We, too, have kinks fighting for us.

Mobilization Director Byrnes, declaring that governmental seizure of war plans sometimes is not the best way to meet a difficult labor situation, remarks that Congress should be able to draft a law that will treat "the Avers and the Petrillos alike."

This is admission from a high source—next to the President himself that similar treatment has not been accorded to the head of Montgomery Ward and to the czar of the musicians' union. Just why it would be necessary to draft a new law to guarantee such equitable treatment Mr. Byrnes does not make clear.

The treatment accorded Sewell Avery as head of Ward's, just as the treatment accorded Cesar Petrillo, was entirely a matter of presidential choice and discretion. With an election in the offing, Mr. Roosevelt addressed a "please-kind-sir" missive to Mr. Petrillo begging him to comply with a War Labor Board order; Mr. Petrillo figuratively thumbed his nose at the White House and later managed to squeeze a four million dollar contract out of a record company.

Mr. Avery asked to have the courts decide the rights of his company, but was forestalled in this request and his officers were taken over by the Army.

If there is any power in the existing law, it must apply equally to the union czar and the corporation president. The whole question is not one of drafting a new law, but of executive administration of what laws we have.

March of Dimes Program

The speaker of the day was Clarence M. England, local chairman of the March of Dimes campaign of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, who gave an illustrated talk on the wonderful job which was done during the 1944 infantile paralysis epidemic, which centered in North Carolina. In all, 344 cases were taken care of, only 12 of whom died, while 324 had complete recovery. The foundation spent $389,000 in this epidemic and the slides showed the work done in building a hospital, equipping it with the latest equipment, and garnering the best medical help available in the country to combat the disease.

Locally, there were six cases, four of whom received aid from the foundation, Mr. England stated. Of the funds received in the campaign, 30 per cent remains in the local chapter's treasury for work among victims in this country.

Servicemen Guests

Guests from the service included
Pfc. Harry McClintock, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. McClintock of 423
Leasure avenue, who was wounded in Schenland, Holland, when the 101st airborne division was landed in Holland last fall. He was treated in England, and later evacuated to the United States. After completing a 30-day convalescent leave he will return to a hospital in California for further treatment.

Others were Ensign Howard Lyon, son of Rotarian George E. Lyon, who completes his leave today. He has been attending the Harvard supply school conducted by the navy, and will report for an overseas assignment; Sgt. Gerald Medler of Glenville, N. Y., wounded on Saipan while serving with the 27th division, and Pfc. Nick Impagliazzo of Ocean City, N. J., wounded in Italy while serving with the 36th division. The latter two are now stationed at Deshon hospital annex here.

Honor was also accorded Rotarian
John McClelland, who leaves soon to enter the armed forces, and later will be said to him by the members.

Tin Can Collection Near 50,000 Again

Public School Youngsters Continue Enthusiasm For Can Collection

Tin can collection reports from the elementary schools for last week show a decided jump in the number of cans collected. Usually hovering around the 35,000 mark, school totals for the week of January 15 were up to 47,001. This indicates that last week's appeal for more metal from the state salvage director caused local boys and girls to go to work with renewed vigor on their own big war project.

The north hill schools, McGill and Highland led the field in their respective divisions, each of the two schools collecting more than 7,000 cans.

For individual honors, Joanne Murphy of Highland was highest with 1,337; Joan Olson of Arthur McGill was second with her collection of 1,143. Lottie Shaffer, a fifth grade girl from Lincoln Garfield turned in 1,078 cans.

For those who are of the opinion that war is a man's job, please note that all three of last week's winners were girls. Joanne Murphy won second prize in Lawrence county for the first half of the school year.
Three additional bond and stamp awards will be made to winners for the second half, beginning January 8. Below are school totals for the week:

Pastors Seeking To Halt Divorce Gain In Chicago

CHICAGO—(INS)—A campaign to prevent the rise of Chicago's divorce rate is the goal of a committee of clergymen, appointed by Supreme Judge John A. Sbarbaro, who warned that divorces soon may exceed marriages here.

Members of the committee, headed by Dr. Louis Mann of Sinai Temple, will meet soon to outline its plans.

Judge Sbarbaro told the clergymen that since Jan. 1, 1944, nearly 16,000 divorce suits have been filed in circuit and superior courts here, and that he hears approximately 800 such cases each month.

"The problem is appalling," he said. "Chicago is getting a reputation as a divorce mill."

One reason for the situation, the Judge said, is the Supreme Court ruling which permits the granting of divorces without appearance of the plaintiff.

The Judge pointing out that reconciliation is impossible when a couple reaches the divorce court, recommended that the ministers take a continuing interest in marriages they solemnize.

New Exchange Of Nationals With Japan Is Likely

May Bring Large Numbers Of American Citizens Now Held In Japan Back To U. S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—(INS)—
The state department today saw the possibility of another exchange of American and Japanese nationals which would bring large numbers of American citizens now held in Japan back to the United States.

The department disclosed receipt of a communication from the Japanese government, forwarded by the Spanish embassy in Washington which said:

"Japanese government are considering further exchange of nationals between Japan and United States and expect to be able to carry it out during next year (1945)."

This indicates, according to the state department, that Japan is now ready to bring to a favorable conclusion "many and continuous efforts" made by the American government for the exchange of American and Japanese nationals.

The state department added that it "is prepared to insure the speedy execution of any exchange to which the Japanese government's agreement can be obtained."

Two previous exchanges have been executed—one in the summer of 1942, when over 1,300 American nationals were repatriated from the far east, and another late in 1943, which brought approximately 1,240 Americans.

The state department said it had been obliged to "overcome Japanese indifference" in its efforts to arrange further exchanges. The new arrangement eliminates negotiations begun in March of last year when a complete plan of exchange on a reciprocal basis was presented to Japan through the Swiss government.

Delayed by the Japanese was attributed to Tokyo's charges that Japanese nationals were being improperly treated in the United States. This was a particular reference to the Tule Lake segregation center in California.

With New Castle Afro-Americans

A group of 30 people gathered Saturday evening for a surprise party in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Williams, of the West Pittsburgh road, in honor of the birthday of Mrs. Ella Williams. A lunch was served by Mrs. Callie Beard, Mrs. Gertrude Wilkins, Mrs. Adrienne Shingler, Miss Louise Larry, Mrs. M. L. Payne and Mrs. Elizabeth Eggleston. Many lovely gifts were presented to the guest of honor, Elder and Mrs. S. Threats and Dr. and Mrs. J. Gillespie were special guests.

Dr. G. W. Garnett, president of the local branch of the N.A.A.C.P., along with Berl Hall, Mrs. Dorothy Hall, Miss Rosa Brown and Miss Corinne Gorside, attended the regional conference in Cleveland, O., Sunday, January 21, at the Phillips Wheatly association and the open forum mass meeting at St. James' A. M. E. church. Plans are being made to inject new life into the New Castle branch. A series of card parties, concerts and other affairs will be given to swell the treasury and help with the Wendell Wilkie Memorial building to be constructed in New York City by the N. A. A. C. P.

Listening Device Causing Concern

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—(INS)—Sen. William Langer (R) N. D., said today that a device has been perfected by which conversations can be heard at a distance of three and a half miles without use of wires.

Aroused by the possibility of invasion of privacy of citizens, Langer introduced a bill in the Senate to regulate use of listening devices.

No Confirmation Of Prisoner Release

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—(INS)—American Red Cross national headquarters said today it had received no reports that the swift Russian advance on the eastern front had freed American war prisoners in Nazi prison camp 64 near Posen.

NOW SHE SHOPS "CASH AND CARRY"

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with a burning or stinging sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisons and waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

"A Silence Deep and White"

That about describes my GAS Refrigerator

"It's always been a marvel to me how the tiny Gas flame runs that roomy refrigerator and gives such clean, silent refrigeration, day after day. Reminds me of that poetic scene of the countryside muffled in the first snowfall.

"But my Gas refrigerator has more than beauty and attractive lines. That silent operation, besides eliminating mechanical noises, means that my refrigerator will last longer and be just as efficient years from now as it is today.

"And the cost of operation is truly just a tiny item in my budget. Gas refrigeration adds up to the best, and it's my choice for keeps."

Discharged Veteran Heads For Workhouse

MERCER, Pa., Jan. 23.—(INS)—Bernard Rice, discharged army veteran, today was headed back to Allegheny county workhouse for the second time in less than a year.

Judge George H. Bowler sentenced the Danville, Pa., youth to serve from one to two years on charges of burglarizing several Sharon homes while he was stationed at Camp Reynolds.

Only a month ago Rice completed a six-month sentence in the workhouse on charges of burglary in Butler county.

Mercer County War Dead Toll Is 214

SHARON, Pa., Jan. 23.—(INS)—Mercer county today had given the lives of 214 of its young men during World War II, a survey showed.

During the first three weeks of this year 20 fatalities were reported. Fourteen of these were during Germany's December drive.

The survey also showed that 82 men were reported as missing in action and 66 as prisoners of war.

Receive Order For Curtailing Display Lights

War Production Board
"Brown-out" Of Display
Lighting Is Effective
February 1

Pennsylvania Power Company has received a copy of Utilities Order U-9 of the War Production Board, which is effective February 1, prohibiting the use of electricity for various display purposes.

Specifically, the order prohibits the use of electricity for the following purposes:

1. Outdoor advertising and outdoor promotional lighting.
2. Outdoor display lighting except where necessary for the conduct of the business of outdoor establishments.
3. Outdoor decorative and outdoor ornamental lighting.
4. Show window lighting except where necessary for interior illumination.
5. Marquee lighting in excess of 60 watts for each marquee.
6. White light street lighting in excess of the amount determined by local public authority to be necessary for public safety.
7. Outdoor sign lighting except for:

(a) Directional or identification signs required for fire and police protection, traffic control, transportation terminals or hospitals; or directional or identification signs for any similar essential public services the lighting of which is specifically certified to be necessary by local public authority. Certification shall be made in writing to the appropriate electric supplier and need not be in any particular form.

(b) Directional or identification signs using not more than 60 watts per establishment, for doctors and for hotels, and other public lodging establishments.

The order also requests that utilities notify their customers concerning the order, and cooperate in its enforcement.

The War Production Board Order is the result of a request by Director of War Mobilization Byrnes to save coal.

At the same time, Mr. Byrnes requesting that buildings of all kinds reduce the temperature to 68 degrees, estimating that such a reduction in temperature would save a total of 14 million tons of coal this year.

It has also been estimated that the elimination of display lighting, as required in the War Production Board Order, will save two million tons of coal annually.

According to the order, the War Production Board may, in the event of continued and willful violation, order a utility company to discontinue service to the violator.

Youth Week Program Is Planned Locally

Young Church People To Attend
Interdenominational Meeting
On February 2

Observance of National Youth Week, January 28-February 4, will be carried out locally at a special meeting sponsored by the Lawrence County Christian Endeavor Union to be held Friday, February 2, at the First Congregational church.

As Youth Week is interdenominational, embracing 42 denominations of the Protestant faith, the union has enlisted the support of various churches of the city and county for a representative attendance of the young people of the various churches at the meeting.

Annual observance of Youth Week developed from the celebration of Christian Endeavor Week. In 1944 the first joint observance of Youth Week-Christian Endeavor Week was authorized by the United Christian Youth Movement.

The United Christian Youth joint committee consists of three persons from the Westminster Fellowship of the Presbyterian churches of the United States, three representatives of the youth division of the Protestant Episcopal church and three from the International Society of Christian Endeavor.

To unite young people in a program of action to "Build Today for a Christian World" is the aim of the United Christian Youth movement as a cooperative effort on the North American continent of Protestant denominations and state and national interdenominational youth agencies.

The movement began in 1934, has grown until its program reaches millions of Christian young people.

The first printing press in America was set up at Cambridge, Mass., in 1630.

COSTS NO MORE SO NO REASON NOT TO HAVE... DOUBLE MILK PROTEINS MINERALS

Costs Us More To Make, But We Charge No More Because We Want To Make A Million New Friends For Wonder Bread

A chain is as strong as its weakest link . . . your body is as good as the health of its cells. In the young, cells grow and new cells must develop. In the old, worn-out cells must be rebuilt.

In the making of flesh and bone Nature uses principally proteins and minerals. Obviously milk must be a good source of these proteins and minerals. Or Nature would not use milk to start you off in life.

Every hour, every minute of your existence the billions of cells of your body are undergoing change. Thus, the human body requires proteins and minerals not just once in a while—but every day.

Naturally, children need more because they are growing. But adults also need proteins and minerals.

Because your bodily machine is wearing out every moment of the day. And must be repaired.

A Great Benefit In Wonder Bread

Until recently, when milk proteins and minerals were being shipped in such enormous quantities to the armed forces and our allies, it was impossible for people to get the benefits this way.

Now, and taking the initiative again, the bakers of Wonder Bread DOUBLED the quantity of milk proteins and minerals in the formula to give you this amazing new Wonder Bread.

Although it costs more, the bakers of Wonder Bread have added nothing to the price. Because they want to make a million new friends for Wonder Bread. Thus, no reason not to have it for your child, family and self.

No More Big Holes

Another reason you will like this new Wonder Bread is because it contains no big holes to drip sandwich fillings causing extra laundry and dry-cleaning bills. Then, too, as you can see from studying the energy chart at left, extra slices of this new energy-charged Wonder Bread can give you extra energy.

Further, Wonder Bread's famous $1,000 Vitamin B₁ Guarantee assures you that it contains enough Vitamin B₁ to help transform it into energy properly.

Now on the vital point of freshness! Wonder Bread is famous as the bread that is doubly fresh: Fresh to buy; fresh to eat. Because slo-baked.

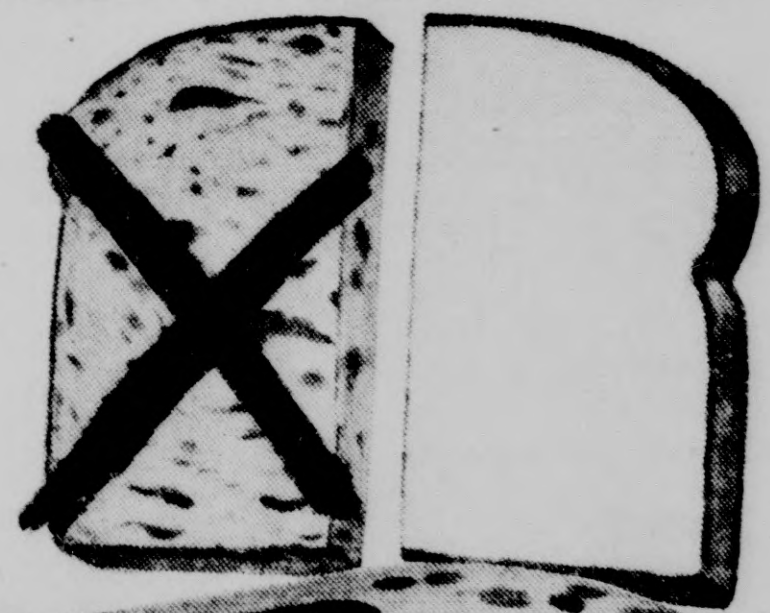

Double milk proteins and minerals...energy-charged...$1,000 Vitamin B₁ Guarantee...doubly fresh...these are the things you want in bread. Ask your grocer for new Wonder Bread today. You'll be glad you did.

Seeks To Protect Rights Of Soldiers

Paul McNutt Urges Legislation Be Enacted For Protection Of Servicemen

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—(INS)—Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt urged congress Monday to enact legislation protecting members of the military services from continued loss of rights under old-age and survivor insurance.

The recommendation was made in the social security board's ninth annual report. It also advocated extension of the unemployment insurance system to cover some fifteen to twenty million presently excluded workers, and twenty to twenty-five million other employees and self-employed persons who are ineligible for old-age and survivor insurance.

McNutt emphasized that "millions of households" have suffered wartime privations despite record employment and boom-time pay checks, and proposed that congress bolster the social security program to prepare for any widespread post-war security.

FORMER RESIDENT IS WOUNDED IN FRANCE

Word has been received from Mrs. Della V. Gurgio of San Antonio, Tex., a former resident of New Castle, stating that she has been informed by the war department that her son, Pfc. Charles Gurgio, was seriously wounded in France during the middle part of December.

He had risen to the rank of staff sergeant when he transferred to the air corps and was attending classes at the University of Tennessee, when he was transferred back to the infantry and sent overseas last October. He had been in service five years. Another son, T-5 Arthur Gurgio, is also overseas, with a medical unit, having been sent across in September.

No Official Reply To Young's Letter About Bond Issue

Council voted Monday three to two against replying to C. H. Young, district engineer, state health department that the council is or is not in favor of floating another bond issued ($75,000) to pay for completion of repairs at the sewage disposal plant.

Messrs Hoyland and Gibson voted for D. O. Davies' motion to file Young's letter asking the city to fulfill its promise, made to him, he alleged, during a session in the mayor's private office months ago.

Councilman J. D. Alexander and Mayor John F. Haven maintained it was wrong to ignore Young's communication.

Young stated in the letter that the city was given approval by the state to float a $60,000 bond issue, upon its promise, which he claims, was made in a session with him, to pass another issue of $75,000, to pay for all repairs either in 1945 or as a post-war project.

Councilman Hoyland and Davies say the time is not ripe now for the work and assert it may exceed the $75,000 suggested. Hoyland said he understood the agreement was to have the work done when the city was ready or as a post-war job.

Davies said he entered into the agreement with mental reserve and as a councilman, in view of conditions that since have arisen, has changed his decision which is his prerogative.

Councilman J. D. Alexander asserted he knew what was said, maintained the council agreed to the $75,000 issue and declared Young was entitled to "Yes" or "No" concerning the issue. Mayor John F. Haven aligned with Alexander.

Davies took the attitude that there had been too many letters from Young and charged it would keep council busy answering his letters, hence the motion.

Eric Johnston As Top Movie Man Strongly Hinted

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—(INS)—From sources highly placed in the motion picture industry came a quasi-official statement yesterday that Eric A. Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, was due for a top spot in the Will Hays organization, and a denial that Hays himself was to step down as czar of the movies, a role he has occupied for 23 years.

"Mr. Hays," said a spokesman for the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, official title for the industry's controlling organization, "will work in collaboration with Eric Johnston, if the latter's appointment is confirmed."

"He is being considered for an important post in the Producers' Association, but nothing has been decided yet."

It was added that, in the event the deal was consummated, Hays and Johnston would work "side by side," a statement that seemed to confirm a report in circulation six months ago that Johnston was in line to be made the movie's first "ambassador to Washington."

Broadcasts From Berlin Are Jittery

Ominous And Sometimes Despairing Broadcasts Fill German Air Waves

By CHARLES A. SMITH
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Jittery, ominous and sometimes despairing broadcasts filled the air-waves from Berlin today as the gigantic Russian offensive swept into the outskirts of Posen and moved steadily closer to the German province of Brandenburg which embraces the Nazi capital.

Amid constant appeals to the German population to "hold out" and dire warnings that the war can end only "in Nazi victory or extermination," Berlin announced that the "best men" under Adolf Hitler and Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler now have been dispatched to the eastern front with full authority to act in the mounting crisis.

Propaganda spokesmen in Berlin called repeatedly for "cool nerves" as they warned without equivocation that the "decisive hour" now has come.

Fire Chief Lawrence Scully said the blaze was caused by a welding job being done on a truck. One wall of the building caved in, narrowly missing four firemen.

O. C. Brock, president of the dairy, said he hoped to make all deliveries today with 15 trucks which were driven from the garage after the fire started.

Members of Perry S. Gaston Post, American Legion, have an interesting evening in store this evening.

Commander Lee R. Hanna promises two fine pictures on war subjects having been secured. The one picture will show the firepower effect of our guns, including the famous 240 M. M. howitzer, while the other will show the making of the famous B-29 bomber. Lunch will be served at the close of the evening's program.

LESSON IN ENGLISH
NEW YORK, N. Y.—(INS)—The Australian News and Information Bureau reports that Australian scientists have resorted to pidgin English in an effort to teach New Guinea natives the symptoms of common illnesses. The lessons sound something like this: Doctor—"Suppose head he pain, skin he hot, backside he pain, he no like walk, food—what name belong this fellow something?" And the doctor feels well rewarded if the answer comes back, "Malaria."

COUNTY HOME

Inspections of the county home are fairly regular by the county commissioners but on Monday Commissioners Earl R. Wimer and Joseph F. Travers invited County Controller and the engineer of this column to accompany them to inspect the home from top to bottom and to eat lunch there.

The home is now under the superintendency of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Cutler and the first impression as one enters the door is that of old fashioned cleanliness. The institutional atmosphere usually found around such buildings has to a large extent disappeared. A number of the rooms have been painted and more are to be done. The work is being done by a resident of the home, James Burns, and is being done well.

A male nurse is now on the job, Fred Gill, and he has thirty-nine male residents of the home under his care. The hospital ward is clean and comfortable and Mr. Gill is doing a job. Mrs. Elizabeth Richardson is the matron of women and her side of the building matches the other side in cleanliness and orderliness.

We were interested in the meal in order to see the type of food given the residents of the home. Monday at noon there was sauerkraut and pork and the guests ate the same menu as the residents.

It wasn't a fancy meal, just a wholesome old fashioned meal that

BOETHIAN CIRCLE

Ladies of the Boethian Circle of the Presbyterian Sunday school elected their officers for the ensuing year as follows: President, Mrs. J. S. Wilson; vice president, Mrs. W. D. Dickson; second vice president, Mrs. J. D. Shelatree; treasurer, Mrs. H. R. McKim; secretary, Mrs. Clarence Boots; pianist, Mrs. Pearl Dindinger. Committee in charge of the annual thirteen dinner at 6:30 p. m. Thursday in the church: Mesdames C. S. Ferguson, Agnes Guy, T. W. Marshall, Robert Grinner, F. L. Herbert and J. D. Shelatree.

KING'S DAUGHTERS

Members of the King's Daughters class of the Presbyterian Sunday school elected their officers for the year at their annual dinner held recently as follows: President, Phoebe Hennon; vice president, Edith Martin; secretary, Naomi Lepardo; treasurer, Kay Allen.

SON WOUNDED

Mr. and Mrs. Earle Grinnen received word that their son had been injured when his boat was hit by enemy plane. Two LST boats were hit and Robert Grinnen, pharmacist mate on an LST lost, his right arm.

He is at the Navy hospital at Mare Island, Calif., and called at his home to tell them that he had arrived safe and would be home sometime. The LST's were in the Philippine Islands. Robert is a graduate from W.H.S.

WAMPUM NOTES

Red Cross will meet in the boro building Thursday afternoon at 2. A request that all ladies who can come will get work to do.

Misses Marion Grinnen and Ruth Freed were recent visitors in Pittsburgh.

Schools Backing March Of Dimes

New Castle school children are backing up the March of Dimes campaign just as they backed up the war bond drive, according to C. M. England, chairman of the New Castle drive, and William Hanna.

Special programs, consisting of films and talks, are being given only in the two junior high schools and in the senior high school, but collections are being taken up in the grade schools also. Boxes have been left in all of the schools by Joe Hartman, who is in charge of the school campaign, and in most cases each home room is taking care of its own contributions.

'Mystery Man' Is Identified

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 23.—(INS)—The "mystery man" whose peculiar activities in a Philadelphia neighborhood led residents to suspect him of being a Nazi agent today was identified as Dominic Guzzi, 35, alleged numbers pickup man.

Every afternoon he would have slips of weighted paper dropped to him from windows when he signalled with his horn, police said. Vice squad detectives who seized the suspect after residents reported his strange activities, said the papers contained numbers plays.

OVER-SHOE CARE

Teach the children to clip their overshoes and rubbers in pairs as soon as they take them off. Clip clothespins are handy for this and the ends might be dipped in different colored paints for each child.

Sunday School Rally Program

Ira C. Sassaman, State Adult Superintendent, Speaker For Conference Thursday

Program for the efficiency conference and adult and young peoples rally, which is to be held at the Epworth Methodist church, Thursday, June 25, afternoon and evening session, will have for its leader and chief speaker, Ira C. Sassaman, adult superintendent of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association. Between the afternoon and evening session, a Christian Fellowship chicken dinner will be served by the ladies of the Epworth church.

The afternoon session will start with registration at 2:15 followed by opening devotional service. Coming activities for consideration will then be taken up which will include the pre-Easter increase campaign, the mission to Christian teachers of Pennsylvania which will be in this city during February, the state law in regard to alcohol education in the public schools, also the need for building up and strengthening Christian morale for the home and war fronts.

Presentation of adult class work and program in the Bible school by Ira C. Sassaman, will be followed by reports from district presidents and departmental superintendents. Following this there will be an open forum discussion and the showing of two sound motion pictures, "Youth in Crisis" and "Between Two Worlds".

The evening session will start at 7:30 with song and worship service followed by devotional meditation by Dr. G. S. Bennett and greetings by pastor of the conference-rally church, Rev. C. R. D. Braun. After reports not given at the afternoon session, there will be attendance recognition, offering and offertory, and special music by Mrs. Paul D. Weller.

Inspirational message of the evening, "Christ Calls Today's Youth" will be delivered by Mr. Sassaman. The conference-rally will close with a "Friendship Circle" in charge of Rev. A. M. Stevenson.

New Castle To Battle Ellwood High Tonight

Section Three Game Listed For Washington Floor, Preliminary At 7 P. M.

FORD CITY HERE SATURDAY NIGHT

New Castle high school basketball team will play Ellwood City Wolverines at Washington gym tonight in the Section Three game with sixth place in the league at stake. Both New Castle and Ellwood have won one and lost five league games to date. The preliminary game between the New Castle Junior Varsity and the Ellwood Junior Varsity will start at seven o'clock.

Tonight will mark the final league tilt for two New Castle stars, Fred "Fritz" Wimer, the sensational high-scoring center, and Eddie Jackson, a dependable guard at all times. Both boys have graduated, but will be eligible to play their final Section Three game this evening. The fans will no doubt give these two a rousing reception in their final high school appearance as athletes.

Getting Prepared

ALTHOUGH St. Valentine's day won't roll around for some time yet, lovely Dorothy Van Nuy, film starlet, appears to be ready now to play Cupid with her bow and arrow. Quite a change from the regular Cupid, eh? (International)

For several hunting seasons prior to about half a decade ago I was in the habit, traveling to or returning from some of my favorite hunting grounds, of dropping in on Taylor's island. No matter what my luck elsewhere, I could usually bag a pheasant or two, a squirrel, cottontail or maybe a mallard or teal. On I'd take a late afternoon trip there after work hours. It was less than an hour's drive in those days. I could get to the island, do a little hunting, and be home again shortly after dark. Taylor's island was a productive close-to-home game pocket.

Ghost of Island It wasn't really an island at all, but a little piece of hardwood upland scarcely an eighth of a mile in diameter, set squarely in the midst of a cattail marsh. Through one side of the small swamp ran a creek which had its origin in a large shallow lake, and which in the spring was alive with suckers and little bullheads. Muskrats made their homes in its banks, mink prowled along it on the trail of rats and other prey, while foxes, skunks and coons often left their footprints along its muddy shores. Three or four species of ducks and rails, coots and other marsh birds nested in the swamp and loitered through the early days of the hunting season.

At one spot the creek broadened into a little pond, where considerable numbers of native ducks often congregated in the fall before leaving for the south. During a dry summer the creek dwindled into a rivulet, but never entirely disappeared. Then the marsh became easily "navigable" without risk of wetting one's feet.

In the autumn, however, rains raised the water level and it was often necessary to do considerable splashing and hillocock-hopping to attain the island. That little hardwood game pocket became the refuge for pheasants flushed from the neighboring cornfields, bustards frolicked in the oaks and elms, and it was seldom that you couldn't scare a cottontail out of the briars and wild grapes that fringed the margin of the upland.

The ghost of the island is still there and still harbors stray game at times. The marsh has dried up. Last fall it lay drab and lifeless under the Indian summer sun. There were not wildfowl on the creek. In fact there was no creek there any more. The source was dammed and the stream drained out years ago to make the marsh available for use as farm land—a use to which, for some reason or other, it never has been put. No muskrats or mink frequent the arid channel that marks the former watercourse.

SHOOTING LESSONS FREE Basic firearms school will be held at eight o'clock tonight by the Revolver club on the Cathedral range. Sixteen-year-olds or eligibles for military service are invited to participate in the free course, according to Adjutant Charles Brunton.

Williams Kayos Maxie Berger

Former Canadian Welterweight Champion Flattened In Fourth Round

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 23.—(INS)—Hard-hitting Ike Williams, Sepia Trenton lightweight, added another knockout victory to his impressive string today after flattening Canada's former welterweight king, Maxie Berger, in the fourth round of a scheduled 10-rounder at the Philadelphia Arena.

Ike stalked his dodging, backpedaling prey for three frames before joining his more ringwise foe with a few solid blows to slow him down at the outset of the fourth, and set him up for a vicious left hook that sent Berger to the canvas in two minutes and 51 seconds of the round.

A crowd of 5451 fans who paid a gross of $13,859 into the gate cheered Berger's retiring tactics through the first three rounds and yelled approval when he finished him with the lightning left.

Berger scaled 143 to Williams' 133½.

Three Games In Loop 21 Tonight

Bessemer At Wampum In Feature Tilt, Shenango Battles At Union

EAST BROOK TO PLAY MT. JACKSON

Bessemer high school basketball team will journey to Wampum tonight for a Section 21 battle that will feature the night's card in the class B loop.

Wampum's "two-points-per-minute" record may take a kicking around tonight at the hands of the "hot" Bessemer club. The Indians have picked off four loop wins in a row and are intent on finishing the season undefeated. Coach Joe Wersuk hopes to be able to hand the Hemlockmen a real surprise package tonight.

Shenango At Union Shenango High will go to Union for a real tussle of two very fine and evenly divided basketball teams. Shenango has won three and lost two league games and "will be tough to beat tonight," Coach Eddie Nahas said.

Union with one league win and two setbacks hopes to even up the score at two all tonight. Coach Pat Patterson has a feeling that the Blue and Whites can upset the East New Castle boys this evening. If Union can stop the sensational Charlie Tanner they will have their hands full.

The other game in Section 21 will be a battle to stay out of the cellar between East Brook and Mt. Jackson, and the game will be played at the Mt. Jackson court. Coach Bob Dinsmore of East Brook is confident that his boys have found themselves as shown by their fine play in the first half of the game with Wampum last Friday. Mt. Jackson will try hard to gain its first loop win this evening, and may succeed.

Beagle Owners To Hold Second Dinner

Second annual dinner of the Shenango Valley Beagle club will be held at 7 p. m. Saturday in Sylvan Heights golf club dining hall, according to Chairman Harry Brinton. About six Beagle owners will be present. Representatives of the AKC will also be in attendance. Among the entertainers will be Froggy Cortez of Ellwood City. A. McGurk is in charge of reservations and members who have not yet received their should telephone him at 2192.

The club maintains a 165-acre training area and club-house along Highland Heights road and during last winter and this winter conducted a stocking and feeding program. Every Sunday during the heavy snowfall members have placed food for the game.

Week-End Baseball

None of the club-owners would embrace week-end baseball as exactly a boom laden with riches, but it would enable them to meet expenses and even hang on to a few bucks besides.

If this should be decided upon as a compromise satisfactory to both the populace and the government it would (1) enable the 4-F's to spend five days in a war plant in keeping with the trend in this direction; (2) enable them to play rough baseball to satisfy the fans and war workers in keeping with the viewpoint of some that it is necessary as a morale-builder; and (3) cut down on the transportation of ball clubs.

This suggestion for week-end baseball is based on the assumption that it would not contribute to absenteeism among war workers. If, with the horse track closed, they should desert defense jobs in appreciable numbers to infest the ball yards even on week-ends and holidays, then baseball's only alternative would be to shut down entirely.

Owners Argue

The baseball people will offer many arguments against any compromise arrangement. They will tell you that the ball players won't be able to stay in shape playing only on week-ends. The answer to that is let them work out in their spare time. Furthermore, they are not going to be ready for the start of the season anyway after training again in eastern and mid-western snow banks and ice floes.

If they tell you that a 4-F isn't wanted by the government or is being persecuted by the press, or offer some other excuse quote them this paragraph from an International News Service Washington dispatch: "The statement pointed out the inconsistency of rejecting an athlete for an ailment not sufficiently serious to bar him from participation in professional games and exhibitions."

I thought at the time and I still think there was entirely too much enthusiasm over President Roosevelt's statement immediately after the war, which everybody immediately interpreted as the signal for baseball to go ahead. It didn't sound like that to me.

NEW CASTLE NEWS SPORTS

HERE AND THERE

IN SPORTS' LAND

WITHIN a short time sports followers will know almost for a certainty whether professional competition is to be wiped out for a period in the U. S. Effect of new draft regulations on our athletic 4-F's, who now make up the bulk of performers in still active sports, will tell the country ever has known. Most of the amateurs likewise have been caught in the draft, or have been forced to the sidelines through voluntary cancellation of fixtures or through the tightening restrictions imposed by Washington. Here is the way Lawton Carver, I. N. S. Sports Editor, views the situation:

Horse racing is dead for an indefinite period; The billion dollar "industry" was outlawed January 3. Baseball people are determined to start, barring contrary orders. Still, if the 4-F's are ordered to find jobs in essential industries baseball would be virtually wiped out automatically. 261 are 4-F's. Professional football recently, like baseball, has classified as 4-F's. The U. S. Golf Association has announced a blackout of the National Open, the National Amateur, the Women's National and the National Public Links tourneys. No doubt the National Professional championship conducted by the PGA will be cancelled.

Trainees from the military services can be depended upon to bolster college football which will have many freshmen on the field. Travel restrictions alone would hamper the collegians. College basketball goes on unhampered by any restrictions and track and field is preparing for an indoor season despite a dearth of good performers. However, no sport survives will be up to 50 percent of pre-war standard. Among professional sports, boxing seems most likely not only to survive but thrive. Customers flock into arenas everywhere to see drab attractions at liminary fighters. Virtually all championships have been frozen, for the duration while the top-flight performers are doing their bit in service, with the result that the bouts now seen are generally dreary or meaningless.

Sheik (Richard) Rangel, California welterweight, got the name because he always wore a tie. As United Nations forces rush-in, Hitler would like to plea "Don't fence me in." Jerry McGee, Augusta, Ga., middleweight, fought 37 times in 1944. Stanley Mukka, Buffalo, heavyweight, is deaf. So was Dummy Martin of Brooklyn who fought George Chip several decades ago. Bee Bee Wright is none other than James Malletta and he comes from Waterloo, Ia. Bernie Bierman has returned to his job as Minnesota U coach. When a man lit a cigarette at Mill and Washington streets Monday a crowd gathered to see the strange sight.

Harrisburg has its Sure Shot Jake, Eagle Eye Lem and now can boast of another Two-In-One-Hutch. Here are the reasons: Jake McCracken claims he has never missed his first bird on the opening day of a ringneck season. Lem Stoughton has been knocking over foxes so long that it has ceased to be a sport for him. However, when Harry Campbell alias Two-In-One Hutch went to the McClure farm, with some other hunters last week he fired one shot and the one shot killed two foxes. "Good thing there were other hunters with me or no one would believe me," said Campbell.

Fair Or Foul

BY LAWTON CARVER (International News Service Sports Editor) NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Baseball, which seems to think it might be harassed out of business by the war, could enjoy a season of more than 100 games next summer by scheduling only week-end and holiday double-headers. This could be padded out to the customary championship route of 154 games by throwing in some night games.

Under this arrangement of week-end and holiday competition they probably would average nearly as many cash customers per week as they do playing virtually every day, for even the most rabid fans become a little bored with it by mid-season, especially in these times when there are few stars, and some clubs often play to only a few dozen mid-week fans.

None of the club-owners would embrace week-end baseball as exactly a boom laden with riches, but it would enable them to meet expenses and even hang on to a few bucks besides.

If this should be decided upon as a compromise satisfactory to both the populace and the government it would (1) enable the 4-F's to spend five days in a war plant in keeping with the trend in this direction; (2) enable them to play rough baseball to satisfy the fans and war workers in keeping with the viewpoint of some that it is necessary as a morale-builder; and (3) cut down on the transportation of ball clubs.

Titans To Play Hamline College

Coach Grover Washabaugh Announces Game For February 8 After Faculty-Athletic Session

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Jan. 23.—Westminster college's Towing Titan basketball team will play Hamline college at Boston on February 8, as originally scheduled. It was announced definitely by Coach Grover Washabaugh today.

Washabaugh's announcement that the Westminster team will make the trip to Boston came after a session of the faculty athletic committee of the college held today.

For Good of Game

The Westminster mentor had this to say regarding the game: "I think that Westminster can do more good for the betterment of athletics by playing this school than by refusing to play the game."

The question of playing the Westminster-Hamline game was raised some few weeks ago by the announcement that Howard Schultz, the regular first-baseman of the Brooklyn Dodgers baseball team, is the center on the Hamline team. It was suggested by some writers that Westminster's athletes would lose their amateur standing if permitted to play against Schultz, who is termed a professional, due to his major league contract at Brooklyn.

Another Hamline player, however, on professionalism is Rolfe Phelps. It is revealed, Westminster hopes to upset the high-scoring Hamline team, even with the great Schultz in the lineup.

New Castle Rifle Club Wins Match

Defeat Zelenople Rifle Team, 936 To 920; Jesse Moore And Williams High

With Jesse Moore and Williams each banking out a 193 card out of a 200 possible, the New Castle Rifle club defeated the Zelenople Rifle team last night at the Cathedral range 936 to 920.

High man on the Zelenople team was Henry Schmid, with a 198 card. This is the second match victory in a row for the New Castle Rifle club, the locals having defeated Ellwood City here a week ago.

The results of the match last night—New Castle: Jesse Moore 193, Williams 193, Wally Bowers 185, Kilbreath 185, Charles Phipps 180, Total 936. Other scores: Treva Boxers 165, Gardner 178. Zelenople: Henry Schmid 188, H. Schmid 186, McWhitney 185, H. Beale 181, Mary Ann Beale 180, Total 920. Other scores: R. Boxers 174, Ed Luntz 171, Betty Schmid 177, M. Bowers 179.

The New Castle Rifle club will welcome any shooters 16 years of age or over for their new class of instructions starting Wednesday evening at the Cathedral range. Competent instructors will be on hand to guide the newcomers in the art of rifle shooting.

Hunting Safety Bill Introduced

HARRISBURG, Jan. 23.—(INS)—The House Game committee was slated to receive a bill today which would require hunters and trappers to keep safety catches on firearms until the moment they were ready to shoot wildlife.

The proposal, co-sponsored by Lackawanna county representatives Harry P. O'Neill and William J. Stoner (R), carried a $25 maximum fine for offenders.

Thaddeus Stevens Trips Rose Avenue

Thaddeus Stevens school basketball team journeyed to the Rose avenue school gym on Monday afternoon and hung an 11 to 5 defeat on the Rose avenue basketballers in warm-up game for the elementary basketball tourney that will come at a later date.

Starting in the game for Thaddeus Stevens were Lutz and DeFalso with Dufford best in the lineup of the losers.

POTTERY, BRONZE, ALCOAS VICTORS

Three Top Teams In Industrial League Win As Expected Monday Night

There was not much in the way of surprise connected with the Industrial basketball league games at the "Y" last night. The three top teams in the league won their games with plenty to spare.

The Shenango Pottery continued to win as usual, this time taking the measure of the United Engineering 40 to 19 with "Dizzy" Santangelo and Jay Thomas supplying the fireworks. With 24 of the Pottery points between them. In the second game the Johnson Bronze won from the Universal Pottery 50 to 32, with every man on the Bronze team having 10 or more points except "Handsome Sammy" Bullano, who didn't tally at all.

In the Aluminum company 55 to 17 wallowing of the National Radiator Works. The playing of "Shorty" Thornton was sensational to the extent of 19 of the Alcoa points, being aided by Byler with 10 points and Donegan a like number.

Young Men Hold Baseball's Fate

Big League Teams Will Try To Operate With 15, 16 And 17 Year Old Boys

SEVERAL KIDS HAVE ALREADY MADE GOOD

By PAT ROBINSON (International News Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Jan. 23. Baseball should do all right this year if the club owners don't get cold feet and heed the advice the late Judge K. M. Landis once gave them about keeping their shirts on.

Racing, too, may stage an early comeback if MacArthur, Eisenhower, Montgomery and Zhukov keep on winning, and there is every reason to believe those great generals will do just that.

The far-seeing Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, has shown the way by signing up 15 and 16-year-old lads for his team. We usually think of a 16-year-old as a little fellow, but many of them today are 200-pound six-footers able to hold their own either in baseball or football.

Brown Was Good

Tom Brown is a case in point. This youngster, who hardly is old enough to know the business end of a razor, played plenty of shortstop for the Dodgers last season. He wasn't a Marty Marion or a Hans Wagner, but he was better than some shortstops we've seen operating in the majors even in pre-war years.

Leslie O'Connor made a ten-strike when he announced that baseball would sign up American Legion Junior Baseball league boys. There are at least 50,000 of these youngsters and only a small percentage of them would fill a great gap in the baseball ranks.

There are scores of major league players who were given their start by the American Legion. Many had made their way up to major league status last year. Fellows like Al Wittmeyer, Don Yohe and Hal Qualman, called up by the Red Sox; Floyd Rightenbury by the White Sox, and many more.

Will Get Chance

Many of these boys who normally couldn't expect to make the majors until they had put in several years of service in the minors now will get a chance to make the grade in a hurry. They will get their experience on major league diamonds rather than in the bushes.

They may lower the standard of competition for a year or two, but what of it? The competition will be on an even keel and will be far better than most fans would believe possible.

The only government move that could hurt baseball now would be a ban on transportation. That, of course, would clamp the lid on it. But at the moment there seems to be no immediate danger from that quarter.

House Loop Title Will Be At Stake

The first half championship of the House basketball league at the "Y" will be at stake Wednesday night when the Cardinals and Keystones tangle at 8:30 o'clock.

Tonight the House league game will have the Pirates battling the Sparklers. The game starts at 7 o'clock.

STOCK MARKET
ISSUES IMPROVE

Respite From Selling Which Had Depressed Prices In Preceding Sessions

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Stock market issues improved fractionally in forenoon trading today, getting a respite from selling which had depressed prices in several preceding sessions.

First hour trading totaled only 266,100 shares.

Half point gains were common in the rail section, with Southern Pacific, B. & O., and Santa Fe moving higher. U. S. Steel climbed 5-8 and most other issues in the same group edged forward fractionally. Light buying helped motors, higher ground Allied Chemical, and American Air Lines.

Bond market prices were firm.

BRIEF NEWS
OVER STATE

WAYNESBURG — Little Bethel school with only 13 pupils turned in more scrap than schools with several times its muster roll to lead Greene county collections throughout most of 1944. The county crown for monthly collections went to Bethel for six of the nine months the schools were open.

HARRISBURG — House Minority Leader Hiram G. Andrews of Johnstown observed the number of absentees in the lower chamber after a record-breaking snowfall and suggested they be drafted into a shovel gang to clean the wide walks in the state capitol park.

SCRANTON — It was all in the day's work when Fire Capt. Welrose Colvin stopped en route to work and used snow to rouse a small automobile fire.

NORRISTOWN — The governmental ban on war time horse racing was underlined in the local U. S. employment office when five men who applied for war work, said they were stablemen.

BROWNSVILLE — John Franks was on hand to dump the last load of coal when the Hillman Coal & Coke company's Pike mine ceased operations after 44 years and officials recalled he had dumped the first load when the shaft was opened.

CHESTER — As a high school girl eight years ago, Doris Shaw began corresponding with a French youth, whose name was given her as part of language instruction. Correspondence was maintained for some time until it suddenly ceased. A recent letter disclosed he had been active in the French underground and had been a prisoner in a French prison.

DOYLESTOWN — The recorder of deeds has reported that a divorce was granted for every marriage license issued during 1944 in Bucks county.

Legality Of Ward

Decision Is Near

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—(INS)—The legality of the army's seizure of 16 Montgomery Ward & Co. properties in Chicago and six other cities was ready for court decision today following submission of the government's final brief in the history-making case.

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan, who heard the arguments and read 14 affidavits filed by the opposing sides, as well as their briefs, indicated that a decision would not be long delayed.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—(INS)—The weather forecast calls for clearing skies tonight that will bring a drop in temperature. The Allegheny County airport reported a 25-degree low over night.

Bus lines reported all routes were operating through road conditions in some sections made for slow driving.

Economist Speaks
To Group On Labor

Interesting Session Of American Economic And Business Foundation Held On Monday

Addressing the American Economic and Business Foundation, on Monday evening, Frank Fernbach, of the United Steelworkers of America, CIO, International Research Department, stated that "we must have changes within the American democratic way of life."

Quite a large group of men and women interested in the labor situation in America, attended the session last evening held in Ben Franklin Junior High school. The address was mainly on labor's views concerning economic problems that face us today.

In continuing, Mr. Fernbach asserted that the labor problems today are different from the problems that will confront us tomorrow. The labor movement in itself is an institution and is a product of the changes. The solution will come through the aggregation of large groups of people through the happiness, health and welfare of people, which is the promise of the democratic business.

Mr. Fernbach answered questions following his talk, and this proved as interesting as Mr. Fernbach's address on "Problems in American Democracy."

The speaker was introduced by Herbert C. Graebner, professor of economics of Westminster College, who invited the group to attend the foundation classes held Monday and Wednesday evenings. Professor C. W. McKee of Westminster College is president of the foundation.

Pvt. W. E. Jenkins and Louis Lutton Return To Duty; Meet New Castle Soldiers

Mrs. E. J. Cookson, of Grandview avenue, R. D. 2, has received word from her son, Private William E. Jenkins, who has been convalescing from wounds in a hospital in Belgium, that he has recovered, and returned to his outfit, the Third Army in France. While in Belgium he met two New Castle boys, Nick Stienich, Smithfield street, and Robert Hink of Garfield avenue.

Upon his return to duty he joined his buddy Louis Lutton, who had also been wounded and hospitalized. They left this city together March 20, 1943. Both are in good health. Louis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lutton, West Pittsburg road.

Capt. Robert Ameno Killed In Belgium

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—(INS)—Residential streets and roads remained slippery today as snow continued to cover ice and ruts to make driving treacherous in Western Pennsylvania.

The weather forecast calls for clearing skies tonight that will bring a drop in temperature. The Allegheny County airport reported a 25-degree low over night.

Bus lines reported all routes were operating through road conditions in some sections made for slow driving.

Bridegroom Jailed After Wedding Fete

MONTROSE, Colo. — (INS) — A bridegroom of less than 24 hours today found himself in the custody of the Montrose jailors instead of enjoying his honeymoon. Along with him was the best man—with each serving out $200 fines as city street sweepers at the rate of $2 a day, with the city providing jail bunks at night.

The pair, Modesto Martinez, 21, and his best man, Alfred Martinez, were jailed and fined after a bridal party melee, in which two women allegedly were injured for refusing to drink to health of the newlyweds. Meanwhile, Modesto Martinez' bride was endeavoring to find sufficient cash to pay off her new mate's fine, so she can start their honeymoon.

No Flood Unless Warm Rain Comes, States Engineer

Control Reservoirs On Allegheny And Monongahela Cut Chance Of Disaster

By MARY M. McAFEE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 23.—Western Pennsylvanians today need not fear a repetition of the 1936 St. Valentine's day flood this year, unless there is a continued warm spell accompanied by a heavy rain. Lt. Col. Charles M. Welons, acting district army engineer, today predicted.

The chances that the area would be faced with another disastrous flood have been greatly decreased by the control reservoirs on the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers in Pennsylvania and West Virginia, he explained.

Flood Peaks Reduced

Flood peaks at the point in Pittsburgh have been reduced from five to 15 feet depending upon the general distribution of the rainfall, Colonel Welons said.

He pointed out that to date 80 million dollars have been spent on the program and that post-war plans call for further expenditures of more than 35 million dollars. The construction of these dams and reservoirs, financed by Federal funds, are the result of years of effort and study, he said.

Eight projects have been completed, the colonel stated, and two more have been designed but work was halted because of the war.

Twenty-Eight Million

The Tysart river reservoir in West Virginia and the Youghiogheny river reservoir in Southern Pennsylvania were built at a cost of 28 million dollars and designed to hold back water which would pour into the Monongahela river, if flood conditions existed. Colonel Welons explained, while the Crooked creek reservoir, the Tionesta creek reservoir, the Mahoning creek reservoir, the Loyalhanna reservoir and the Conemaugh river reservoir all hold back water that drains into the Allegheny.

One of the greatest completed projects of the whole program is the channel improvement at Johnstown, which was designed to make the city "flood free," the acting district engineer reported. Widening the channel and paving the banks of the Conemaugh river and Stoney creek cost well over eight million dollars.

The Allegheny river dam and flood control reservoir is one of the largest of the control units, he explained, the cost of which will exceed 35 million dollars. He said that the river will not be disfigured by the gigantic structure, but instead, the beauty of the upper Allegheny will be increased by the dam and reservoir which will be built above Warren, near Kinzua. The completion of this project give to Northwestern Pennsylvania an outstanding recreational center, as well as help to make Western Pennsylvania free from floods, he declared.

CARBON MONOXIDE FATAL

New Ice-Breakers To Go Into Service On Great Lakes

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 23.—(INS)—Four new ice-breakers will soon be "pumping the ocean" to free boats operating on the Great Lakes.

The new ingenious device adapted by the U. S. Coast Guard and perfected by Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company engineers, known as "rocking," today was believed to be the answer of moving war cargo through the ice-blocked waters.

These Coast Guard ice-breakers will shortly undergo tests utilizing this new equipment. By this "rocking" method boats will be able to travel the shipping lanes of the lakes unhampered by ice.

The "rocking" effect on the vessels is achieved by pumping water into tanks and swishing it back and forth, causing the bow of the vessel to penetrate the ice.

The Coast Guard reports that "the purpose of this equipment is to keep the hull moving at all times, producing a pitching rather than a rolling motion. This keeps the bow in the proper position for ice-breaking."

With powerful pumps that can transfer 150 tons of water every 16 minutes, it is believed that the new "rocking" effect will assist ice-breakers to insure emergency war shipping in the lakes during the winter months.

Former Austrian Gun Now Serves Yankees

Brought Home As Souvenir From Austro-Italian Front, Gun Has Been Serving Local Plant

Serving on the other side during the last war, an Austrian pistol which has been living in New Castle for the past 20 years or more has been taking a very active part in this war, too—on the side of the United States.

This pistol, a Very pistol which is used for sending off signal flares, was picked up by Job Hares, 1519 South Jefferson street, when he was serving in Italy and Austria during the first World War. It has a barrel about a foot long, and a hook on the handle to fasten it onto a belt.

When Mr. Hares picked it up to keep it as a souvenir, it had already lived a very useful life in the service of the enemy. As it happened, a local concern which is manufacturing flares for the army needed just that sort of pistol to test its flares, so about two years ago the gun went back to work again. It even got a new, up-to-date barrel for its new job, and in the past two years it shot off 12 million Very signal flares, perhaps more than it ever shot off for the enemy during the last war.

Back on vacation now, the gun has been thinking things over, and has come to this conclusion: The next time it is called to duty it will again be for the "Yanks."

S-Sgt. R. H. Kalish Missing In Action

Staff Sergeant Kalish has been in service for three years altogether. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Kalish, 2837 Fourth avenue, Beaver Falls, Pa.

Direct Slap At Wallace In Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—(INS)—Sen. Walter F. George (D. Ga.) in a direct slap at Henry A. Wallace—on Monday introduced a bill to divorce major loan agencies from the department of commerce.

George proposed to restore under the federal loan administration the major lending agencies, such as the reconstruction finance corporation, which President Roosevelt placed under the commerce department after Jesse Jones became secretary.

Under the bill the post of federal loan administrator, at $12,000 a year, would be reconstructed. Mr. Jones held this post before he became secretary of commerce.

'Not Enough Spice' Complains Army Cook

WITH AN AMERICAN INFANTRY DIVISION SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Jan. 23.—(INS)—Pvt. Wilber C. Barber of Cyclone, Pa., grieves because there isn't enough "spice" in his job.

However, his gripe had nothing to do with the fighting surrounding him, but his task as an army cook. "Cooking out here is sure a lot different from what I learned at school," he declared as he flipped what he called his 11 millionth flapjack.

Pvt. Barber took a year of cooking while in school and when the army heard about it he was taken from his job as truck driver and placed in a kitchen.

But he thinks he doesn't have enough spices and flavorings out here. Not that he'd like to serve crepe suzettes and beur d'ouves, but for the first few months on this
